

Special Interest Groups

Any group of ten or more PSLA members interested in discussing a common concern which falls within the purpose of PSLA, but which is not the responsibility of a PSLA committee, can form an interest group upon written petition from the group and approval by the PSLA Board of Directors.

Each interest group elects a Chairperson. The Chair keeps a list of the members of the group, is responsible for all communications with them, presides at meetings of the group, and files a written report with the PSLA President on a quarterly basis.

An interest group may meet to discuss common problems and concerns, establish a means of communication among members, and recommend action to the PSLA Board of Directors.

Membership in an interest group is open to PSLA members who are interested in the concerns of that group.

An interest group may be dissolved at its request by the PSLA Board of Directors, and shall be dissolved if it becomes inactive or fails to comply with PSLA Board adopted policies.
